Concerns over mental health care

MENTAL health issues are "not being taken seriously", says a Haverhill campaigner who has suffered from depression and anxiety.

The claim by Ian Withers, who developed mental health problems after being the victim of an armed robbery, comes as national figures show 75 per cent of people with mental health issues aren't being treated.

Mr Withers, of Beaumont Court, said that in his experience it "took some persistence" to be able to access mental health services in Haverhill.

A report by an independent taskforce set up by the NHS revealed on Monday that 75 per cent of people who need mental health treatment in England aren't receiving any, despite rising suicide rates. It adds that mental health is the single largest cause of disability in the UK.

Mr Withers said: "The report shows that mental health is just not taken seriously enough. Six years ago mental health was supposed to be a focus for the Government and little has been done since then."

"Hopefully, this report will be a trigger for better support."

Mr Withers published a book on mental health last year and is currently working on creating an online resource for people who need support.

Helen Melhuish, a Hordon resident whose husband, Roger Melhuish, took his own life in 2013, echoed Mr Withers' concerns.

She said her family's experiences of attempting to access mental health services in the area had been "variable" after her husband's death, and that Mr Melhuish had had numerous GP appointments before his death without his mental health being addressed.

She said about mental health services: "I think they are very much still the poor relation. Until it affects you, people don't like to think about it. It's one of those areas that to a degree you could say 'out of sight, out of mind'."

EDUCATION

NEW HEAD: Kath Just will take over as principal of Samuel Ward Academy in June

New principal reveals plans

THE new head of a Haverhill high school wants its students to be "fit for the 21st century" and plans to grow and develop its sixth form.

Kath Just will be taking over as principal of Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill's Chalkstone Way in June.

Ms Just, 53, who is originally from Yorkshire, is moving from Chiswick School in London.

She said: "I think it's always hard to move to a very successful school. You want to create change but not for change's sake."

She said she wants to ensure all the students are fit for the 21st century. "It's about preparing them for a world that's constantly changing, having that flexibility and adaptability and seeing no limitations."

"I came up through a grammar school system but I fully believe in comprehensive education."

Ms Just said another priority would be continuing to grow and develop the school sixth form. "At my current school I am in charge of Key Stage Five and have grown it - it's a massive positive impact on the school."

"It would be getting past

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

students to come back and spread the word, to make sure students can fully access higher education and further education.

"It's about getting high quality destinations for all students, whether they are apprenticeships, employment, university or college."

The focus on Years 12 and 13 comes after figures from the Higher Education Funding Council for England suggested in December that high-achieving students in Haverhill were less likely than those from other areas to end up at university.

The new head said she would be working with the head of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, Howard Lay, to develop a plan for engaging with the community.

Ms Just said: "[Current head] Andy Prestoe has been there for a long time. I want to make sure that I'm known in the community, that I've got an open door."

She said she would be listening to what all members of the community - including parents, staff and students - had to say about the school.

Ms Just started her career on the Isle of Man, before working for several years in Singapore, teaching English at a foreign language.

Since then she has worked in a number of schools and a pupil referral unit in South London, and has been at Chiswick School for 10 years.

She said that one of the things that drew her to the school was the ethos of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust: "It isn't an exam factory, they see the whole child. It's about making sure that every child is seen as an individual."

Ms Just enjoys travelling and hiking, having recently walked Hadrian's Wall to raise money for research into motor neurone disease, which has hit one of her friends.

She said about moving to the Haverhill area: "I think Suffolk is a very, very beautiful area."

"I am from the country and I wanted to go back to the country. I just think it's a gorgeous place. Haverhill is exactly where I wanted to be."

COMMUNITY

Volunteers needed to help curb speeding on roads

RESIDENTS are being asked to get involved in a scheme to tackle speeding – after figures revealed that cars were travelling at up to 90mph on the town's residential roads.

Councillors discussed setting up a community speedwatch scheme, which would involve volunteers standing by the side of the road taking down vehicle speeds and registration numbers, at a meeting of Haverhill Town Council on Tuesday.

They came up with the idea of launching the scheme – which is already run successfully in villages such as Withersfield – after figures from a vehicle-activated sign revealed widespread speeding, including cars travelling at up to 90mph in Hollands Road.

Now councillors need local people to get involved so that volunteers can be trained and the speedwatch scheme can be launched.

To get involved, email Cllr David Roach at roachdj@btinternet.com

TRANSPORT

Action 'needed on busy road'

BUSINESS leaders say that Haverhill "will suffer" if the A1307 is not improved – and are calling for a meeting after dualling the road was branded "poor value for money".

Chair of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, Paul Donno, expressed "sincere disappointment" over a report on transport improvements to the A1307, published by the Greater Cambridge City Deal two weeks ago.

The report suggests improvements such as cycling routes and a park and ride, but says dualling the road – which the chamber has been campaigning for since October – is "poor value for money".

Last Thursday, the Haverhill and Suffolk chambers wrote to the chair of the City Deal Cambridge, Cllr Lewis Herbert, highlighting the importance of the route and pointing out the road's "tragic history of serious injuries and fatalities".

Members are meeting to discuss the report tomorrow and are calling for a meeting with Cllr Herbert over the route.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

Mr Donno said: "There continues to be sincere disappointment following the publication of the report from the Greater Cambridge City Deal.

The A1307 between Haverhill and Cambridge is no longer fit for purpose and unless a commitment to make real investment is made, then the local and regional economy will suffer."

He added that planned growth for Haverhill, which includes over 4,000 homes by 2031 and the development of the Haverhill Research Park as a base for business, will further exacerbate the problems experienced every day.

The campaign to turn the A1307 into a dual carriageway was launched last October with the support of West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock and New Anglia LEP board director Nikos Savvas.

In December, campaigners met with roads minister Andrew Jones MP at the House of Commons to discuss the road's future.

Haverhill-based chair of Suffolk Chamber of Commerce, Sarah Howard, said: "The A1307 is a very busy road with severe traffic congestion occurring every day particularly during peak commuter times.

"Further to this the road is a key arterial link to Haverhill industry and commerce to the strategic road network and beyond. It has great importance to future economic growth."

City Deal officers concluded in their report on the A1307 corridor that road options including a dual carriageway or a bypass at the village of Linton would cost between £15 million and £100 million and represented "poor value for money".

A rail link was also deemed poor value.

Hopes to set up new town forum

COUNCILLORS are hoping to put an end to Haverhill "not being listened to" by setting up a new forum to discuss issues in the town.

Haverhill town councillors have put forward the idea of a "grand committee" made up of elected representatives from the town and surrounding villages.

The committee would discuss large-scale issues about the area, such as the development of business in the town centre and Haverhill's lack of transport links. It is hoped the committee would be able to feed back to St Edmundsbury Borough Council on the issues it discusses.

The idea was brought up by Cllr John Burns at a full meeting of Haverhill Town Council on Tuesday night.

Cllr Clive Turner supported the idea, describing the town council as "an elected group who are not being listened to in any forum".

He asked if they would be able to make the committee as powerful a body as St Edmundsbury Borough Council, which has powers such as deciding planning applications and organising waste collection services.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

Cllr Turner said: "I want to know how we can establish something the equivalent of a borough here, if there's a way we can do that."

But Cllr Pat Hanlon expressed concerns, that the "grand committee" would not be powerful, saying: "As far as I am concerned, this . . . would just be a talking shop."

Cllr Tony Brown said: "It's a starting point, getting everyone together for common ground. It can gel around an issue and we can move forward that way. It's the grit that hopefully becomes the oyster."

Councillors agreed that they would put the idea on the formal agenda for the next full council meeting so that they could start taking steps to get the committee set up.

The idea came about as a response to the news from leader of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, John Griffiths, that the Haverhill Area Working Party would be shut down for good, despite objections from the town council.

The working party, which last met on February 25 last year, was made up of town, borough and county councillors from Haverhill and the surrounding wards, and gave recommendations to St Edmundsbury Borough Council. The town council heard on Tuesday that it had been shut down because it used up council officer time without making decisions.

STUDENTS from a riding school just outside Haverhill took a pair of ponies out for a day of horsing around over the weekend.

Tabby Morgan-Evans, 3, and 5-year-old Lexie Willis, who both ride at Three Counties Riding

School in Little Court, Little Wratting, rode miniature Shetland ponies at a hunting meet in Hitcham on Saturday.

"The kids absolutely loved it," said Sasha Perfect, who runs the riding school and took the girls – and ponies Duchess and Millie – on the day out.

"People were mainly enjoying riding and jumping the fences, and we were following big horses with the Shetlands on leads, trying to keep up, which was quite funny itself."

MENTAL HEALTH

More cash for mental health services

The independent report has resulted in the Government pledging £1billion towards mental health services by 2020-21.

Both Mr Withers and Mrs Melhuish say they would like to see an increase in awareness and availability of mental health support in Haverhill in the coming years.

A spokesman for NHS West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group said the group was committed to ensuring people in Haverhill are able to access the mental health services they need. "Mental health services are delivered locally by a number of providers including GP practices, community groups and the Norfolk and Suffolk Foundation Trust, which delivers mental health clinics from the town's health centre.

"The Suffolk Wellbeing Service offers help and support for those who are feeling anxious, low or depressed and anyone registered with a GP can self-refer themselves to the service by calling 0300 123 1781 or online at www.readytochange.org.uk

"The focus of our CCG, working with our health and social care partners including GP practices, Suffolk County Council and the NHS Norfolk and Suffolk Foundation Trust, continues to be commissioning and delivering the right help and support for everyone with a mental health need in Haverhill and across west Suffolk."

Railway link? Dream on

I WOULD like to respond to the front page of the Haverhill News with regard to no railway for Haverhill. It is a laudable plan that a large expanding town like Haverhill should want to be connected to the railway network, after all we used to have two lines!

Unfortunately, the way the railway is organised in the UK outside of the Transport for London area means the government owns the track and maintains it, rolling stocks companies own the rolling stock and train operator companies operate the routes. A contract is awarded to these train operating companies to run the trains. There is a limit on what fares can be charged and to some extent the length and frequency of the trains. In order to run, the government has to subsidise the routes. Basically, the train network runs at a loss. Even the once profitable freight service suffers and does not pay because the road network is more flexible.

Why then, would anyone consider financing a brand new railway line to Haverhill? There is limited demand, no chance in making any money. It would be a vanity project for the insane. A good way of losing millions of pounds. Even if, as the government keeps telling us, the country wasn't broke where would the money come from? Why would pensioners swap from a free bus service to Cambridge for an expensive 20 or so minutes saved in time, when they have loads of time already. Cambridge station is miles away from the shops, the bus drops you at the centre.

Now if some large local company wanted a freight line to move loads of freight off the road, and was prepared to pay the price to have all the infrastructure installed, and there was capacity to run the odd passenger train, and somebody was prepared to subsidise the route, you might have a plan. By all means dream, it is good to have dreams, but there is more chance of driverless cars.

Guided busway more realistic

I READ with some dismay about the unrealistic hope for a rail link between Haverhill and Cambridge! How long have we been reading about this. Surely the cost makes it obvious that this is never likely to happen.

Is the idea of a 'guided bus' not more realistic and would obviously not cost anywhere near as much, making it a more feasible option. The route could use the main road where it is not possible to gain land and possibly use the old Roman Road (between Withersfield and the Gogs) for some of the route. This seems to run well the other side of Cambridge so why not our side. I know that there were problems with the first guided bus route but surely

Charge is just an excuse

ST EDMUNDSBURY Borough Council find themselves with a budget cut, so in their wisdom they have decided on a brown bin/garden tax . . . sorry brown bin charge to keep the service going. If 26,000 take up this offer it will bring them a windfall of over £1million in one month.

I think they are using this as a excuse, reason being the incoming living wage and the fact that they want to build a new waste unit. They are making the taxpayers pay for it all. Also, how much of this money will go to clear up the mess flytippers will leave in and around Haverhill?

Club has spaces for pensioners

RECENTLY, there was an article in the Haverhill News which highlighted activities in the town for pensioners. I would like to inform readers of a couple more.

The Salvation Army has run a luncheon club for pensioners for many years. It is held on a Monday morning.

Members are served tea or coffee and biscuits from 10am to 11.30am and can enjoy a chat with one another. Some bring their knitting along as well!

A three course lunch is served at noon all for just £5. It is a happy club that currently has spaces available and is ideal for any older person who is on their own.

We have recently started a new club called Cameo which meets on the first and third Wednesdays of the month for an hour.

We enjoy a time of Christian worship, fellowship, quizzes and refreshments.

It is also suitable for those who are a bit younger!

HAVERHILL HEROES

Three businesses challenging to be named a community hero

HANNAH MIRSKY

A VILLAGE shop, a nursery and a DVD rental store are the finalists for an award to celebrate local businesses and the work they do in the community.

TVL Video in Haverhill's Camps Road, Nisa Stores in Kedington's Silver Street and Sandcastle Playgroup based at Castle Manor Academy are the three shortlisted nominees for the Haverhill Heroes Business in the Community Award.

The award is being sponsored by locally-run online accounting business 1 Accounts.

The awards are being run by the News together with the Castle Partnership Academy Trust, and winners will be announced at an awards ceremony at Haverhill Arts Centre on March 23.

Colin Richards has been running TVL Video for more than 30 years. He has formed lasting relationships with the community, building up a membership base of more than 18,000 people.

He said: "It's nice to know that someone has taken the time to nominate us when we really just do our jobs here and a part of that job is interacting with and helping people."

Nisa Stores in Kedington is run by Dilip and Daxa Visna, who moved to the village from Essex 10 years ago. They have made the shop their own, expanding it into a mini supermarket.

Dilip said that the best part of the job was "every morning, talking to individual people and getting their feedback".

About being a finalist in the community awards, he said: "It's really nice that somebody thought about us and nominated us."

Sandcastle Playgroup, the third of the shortlisted businesses, has been looking after Haverhill's 2 to 5 year olds for more than 30 years.

The playgroup, which has been rated 'outstanding' by Ofsted, showcased its inclusive provision for children with special educational needs in a Family Child-care Trust film last year.

Manager Janette Godfrey said:

NOMINATED:
Sandcastle
Playgroup's
Michelle Brown with some of the children in her care

"We are concerned about the child being at the centre of it, being a little person, how hard the separation from mum is at that age. There are so many more important factors to be in place for children to write their names."

She said the team had been "pleasantly surprised" by the nomination.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Purse and cash stolen from elderly woman

AN elderly woman had her purse stolen at a Haverhill supermarket – and then had £200 taken out of her bank account.

The incident took place at Aldi in Haverhill's Lord's Croft Lane at 4.20pm on Friday, February 12. The purse, which contained banks cards, memory cards and £60 cash, was taken from the woman's pocket.

Her bank card was then used to take out £200 from her account at a nearby supermarket. Police are reminding residents to be careful when using cards and cover their hands when entering PIN numbers.

The suspect is described as middle aged, medium to tall in height with short black curly hair and wearing a three-quarter length blue trenchcoat.

If you have information, call 101 quoting crime reference 37/17440/16.

Van broken into

A LOCKED van belonging to a gas company has had satellite navigation equipment and tools stolen from inside it.

The incident took place between the evening of Thursday, February 4 and 7am on Friday, February 5, in Exeter Court, Haverhill.

The white Ford Transit van was unattended and parked in a layby when it had its lock forced and the items taken from inside the vehicle.

If you have any information about this incident, call Haverhill Police on 101 quoting crime reference number 37/16041/16.

COMMUNITY

MP supporting bid to save village's only pub

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

AN MP is backing a community's efforts to save their local pub – as the deadline for villagers to submit a bid on it looms.

The Cock pub in Thurlow is shutting down and villagers are concerned it may be converted into accommodation if it is sold to a private developer.

A committee of local people is developing a business plan for running the pub, and is set to submit a bid on it by the end of the month. They are asking residents to pledge money towards shares in the business, and have already had £55,000 of the £360,000 they need pledged.

MP for West Suffolk, Matthew Hancock, has got behind the bid, saying: "The Cock pub has been at the heart of village life in Thurlow since the 17th Century and is a social hub for those visiting for food or a drink.

"I'm a strong supporter of the local team who are working incredibly hard to save the pub and make

COMMUNITY ASSET: The Cock pub in Thurlow

What do you think about the pub bid? Have your say at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill it into an asset for the whole community."

The village has already lost its post office and shop, and the committee spearheading the pub bid is determined not to lose the pub as well.

Alison Coffey, chair of the committee, said: "We don't want to lose this, and the only way we can do that is to buy it, and to buy it we need investment. It's a question of doing this with the thought of giving something back to the community and helping people."

The price of a share is currently £250, but the committee is reconsidering the share offer and is hoping to provide less expensive investment opportunities too.

If the bid is successful, the pub is likely to be run as a core community benefit society, meaning that the profits it makes would be ploughed back into local good causes.

TRANSPORT

'Tell us about bus diversion'

RESIDENTS hit by the closure of a road to buses are calling for transport providers to keep them informed about diversions.

The 13 bus, which normally travels up Howe Road and Arrendene Road in Haverhill, has been diverted from that route until March 4 due to county council roadworks.

But residents Bryn Veck and Dennis Richards both say the company has not properly informed travellers about the change.

Mr Veck recounted trying to visit his sister, who lives near the closed bus stops: "I got on the bus at Haverhill bus station and away we went. Then it went straight over the junction and I had to leap up and push the bell."

He said the bus company should keep passengers better informed of diversions, adding: "I didn't see a sign at all, I didn't see anything saying: 'This is blocked.'"

"It's a major closure. A lot of people live up there.

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

What's the matter with these companies?"

He suggested that one way of keeping passengers better informed about closures would be to make sure the driver told passengers getting on the bus about the diversion.

Dennis Richards, who lives in Haverhill's Moneypiece Close and has a daughter living on the Arrendene Road bus route, said that he has seen people waiting at the stops not currently in use, unaware of the diversion.

He continued: "I'm particularly concerned because a lot of very old people use it. Now they've got to walk down to the bottom of a very steep hill."

"If you are 20 it makes no difference. If you are 70 it makes a hell of a difference."

He said that it seemed possible that a bus would be able to continue stopping on Arrendene Road while the roadworks were happening if it reversed into Forest Glade in order to turn around.

But a spokesperson for Stagecoach said that while the company had looked at alternatives to diverting the bus from Arrendene Road, it had safety concerns about reversing into side roads and concluded it would not be possible to turn around due to parked cars.

Operations director for Stagecoach East, Zoe Paget, said the company had made efforts to inform passengers about the diversion.

She said: "Our drivers were encouraged to let as many passengers as possible know about the council's roadworks in the run-up to the closure."

"Appropriate notices were also posted at all affected bus stops, as well as at Drummer Street bus station, Haverhill bus station, Addenbrooke's Hospital, and online, in order to minimise inconvenience to our passengers."

FEATURE

'Fundraising helps keep Karen with us'

Since losing her daughter Karen to leukaemia in 1998, Sylvia Morris has worked tirelessly to transform the lives of others suffering from the same disease. Here, she tells Lydia Fallon about her mission to keep Karen's memory alive.

SYLVIA Morris's Stapleford home is filled with family photos. From school portraits of her three grandchildren to happy holiday snaps, the smiles of Sylvia's family shine down from every wall.

But there's one in particular which stands out. It's the front cover of Telegraph Magazine from Easter Sunday 1998 and shows the striking image of a beautiful young woman with big, Bambi-like eyes alongside the headline "The will to live".

The young woman is Sylvia's eldest daughter Karen. Although you wouldn't know it to look at her, Karen had been fighting leukaemia for over six months at this point, a battle which she eventually lost on September 19, 1998, at the age of 23.

Pictures and memories are now all Sylvia has left. "It's a beautiful picture," she smiles fondly. "It was actually taken by Jason Bell who is now the royal photographer!"

"She's lost all her hair at this point but she wasn't embarrassed to be photographed like that. I remember when it started to fall out she asked the nurse to shave it all off. She was incredibly brave."

Bravery, determination and an iron-clad will to live defined Karen's year-long battle with this cruel disease. In the last months of her life, Karen campaigned endlessly to raise awareness of leukaemia and ensure more people signed up to the bone marrow register.

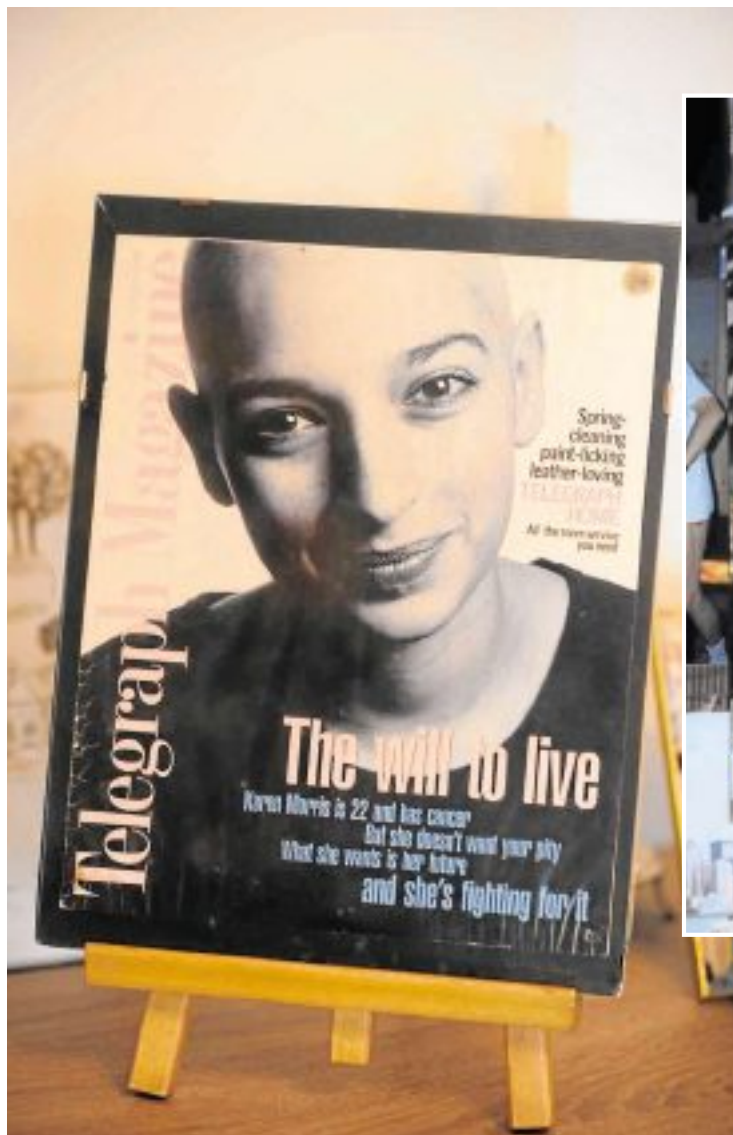

After her death, Sylvia was determined to continue the invaluable work her Karen had started. She set up the Karen Morris Memorial Trust in memory of her daughter in 1999, and in the years since has raised more than £2 million and transformed thousands of lives in the process. The Morris family are one very inspiring family.

"Karen had always wanted to make a contribution to life, to leave this world a slightly better place because of her efforts, and we wanted to make sure her legacy lives on," says Sylvia. "The charity brings some meaning to our loss and ensures she didn't go in vain."

Karen was in the middle of a four-year French and history degree at Warwick University when she was diagnosed with leukaemia. She was in Paris, teaching English to secondary school students, when she noticed some bruises on her legs, "but she thought she'd just banged her shins; that she was just a bit clumsy," Sylvia recalls.

She returned home from Paris not long after and decided to go to the doctors after discovering a blotch on her face too. It was at this point, Sylvia says, "everything exploded. We were about to go on holiday to Spain when we got a phone call asking Karen to come in to the hospital, and for me to come with her. They'd sent off for a blood test for the mark on her face and had the results..."

On September 11, 1997, doctors diagnosed

Karen with chronic myeloid leukaemia. Karen was just 22. She was fit, healthy and had her whole life ahead of her – the news was incomprehensible.

"It was an old man's disease and Karen was always so healthy; we were stunned," recalls

Sylvia. "Karen immediately burst into tears, and then slowly started coping with it, while I was slower to absorb it; all I could think was 'Why us?'."

"But I had to stay strong for Karen's sake, and for my younger daughter Debby. I remember the week before she passed away the doctor saying to me 'There is no hope; how are you always so cheerful?' and I said 'How else can I be? I've got to be strong in front of them.'"

The day of her diagnosis Karen agreed to front a campaign for the Sue Harris Bone Marrow Trust, with the aim of encouraging more donors to sign up to the bone marrow register.

"She was a very popular youth leader with a large circle of friends, and as a result of the campaign thousands joined the register and tens of thousands of pounds was raised," smiles Sylvia.

Never one to rest on her laurels, Karen also started her own campaign for Leuka 2000, the fundraising branch of the Hammersmith Hospital where she was receiving treatment. "She was so incredibly brave. I have this picture in my mind from when I used to drop her off at the hospital. She'd get out the car, sling her bag over her shoulder and march in," says Sylvia. "She wanted to know everything, all the what-ifs. I could only cope with what was happening in the moment but she had a great inner strength. Even on the night before she passed away, she was asking the consultant for her next booster."

Sylvia's life has changed irrevocably since Karen's passing. "When you lose a child nothing else bothers you any more; it puts everything into perspective," she says.

Nothing can ease the pain either, she adds, but throwing herself headfirst into Karen's fundraising initiative did prove a great source of comfort and strength. "I found it therapeutic; something to hang on to which wasn't just memories. It was a way of keeping her name alive and to keep her with us."

The Karen Morris Memorial Trust (KMMT) became a registered charity in 1999, and nearly 17 years later continues to thrive.

The main focus of the charity is Karen's Homes from Home, which aims to provide private, on-site accommodation for the families of people suffering from leukaemia, so they can support each other through the ups and downs of treatment. The charity has homes at four of the leading leukaemia hospitals in the UK (with a fifth hopefully on the way): Hammersmith, the Churchill in Oxford, the Queen Elizabeth in Birmingham and our own Addenbrooke's.

"The emphasis is very much on 'home'," explains Sylvia. "They are all very welcoming, fully equipped with books and games. Families can cook their favourite meals; they can have a bath, everything is meant to be designed for comfort."

Running the charity can, Sylvia concedes, be a lot of hard work, but the feedback she receives from users makes it more than worthwhile. "From 'It gave us a chance to be human beings and a normal couple, not a patient and a carer' to 'I could be with my wife 24/7 for her last Christmas; it's been really wonderful to hear how the homes have helped people."

Her unwavering dedication hasn't gone unnoticed. Sylvia was recently one of 33 medallists honoured at the British Citizen Awards (BCAs), a national honour celebrating the country's unsung heroes. "The ceremony was amazing; I didn't think I'd be as affected as I was," she says. What would Karen have thought of it all? "I could hear her shrieks of 'WOW!'," she chuckles. "She was very much there with us." Sylvia talks about Karen often; wonders what her daughter would be up to if she was still alive, and how different her own life would be.

"I've got three grandchildren, and when you ask the youngest (whose middle name is Karen) what her name is she will say 'Ayela Auntie Karen Jepps'. And they all ask 'Would Auntie Karen have liked me?' We talk about her all the time; it's important to keep her memory alive," says Sylvia.

"I remember at her funeral the rabbi said her book is still open and at the time I felt really cross, really upset about that because it wasn't, but, actually, it really is. She's always with us – just not in the way we would like."

JUSTICE

Fears of long journeys as Government shuts court

NATALIE ROBINSON

@NatalieR_CN

THE nearest magistrates' court to Haverhill is set to close.

The court, in Honey Hill, Bury St Edmunds, was confirmed last Thursday as one of 19 courts in the south-east of the country the Government plans to shut.

Bury St Edmunds court will remain until "local alternative provision is established" for family court, but it will be moved to the town's Triton House.

All other cases will be sent to Ipswich or Norwich to be heard – despite concerns raised about transport links and access to justice.

Cases from the Haverhill area are usually heard at Bury Magistrates' Court, except for cases from the Cambridgeshire/Suffolk border.

Last year's consultation on the closure received 132 responses.

One request was made to consider using Cambridge magistrates' as an alternative court, as it is closer for some Suffolk residents.

An MP who wrote into the consultation, but is not named in the

DOOMED: Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court

What do you think about the closure? Have your say at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill document, said: "Given the size and rural nature of my constituency, and Suffolk generally, the financial burden and inconvenience placed on court users will be significant."

Cambridgeshire and District Law Society also wrote on behalf of 768 members to oppose the closure on the grounds of "increased costs and travel time of court users".

From 2014 until 2015, Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court was running at 59 per cent of its capacity – 15 per cent higher than what was quoted in the original document. It also claimed there was a regular train service between Bury St Edmunds and Norwich, when users would actually have to travel via Ely or Stowmarket.

One respondent pointed out that train and bus journeys stated by the Government assume people start travelling from Bury – when people actually start from their homes and could face journeys lasting hours to reach Ipswich or Norwich.

Sing along and laugh

ONE of the most entertaining groups to come out of the 1960s and 70s, The Barron Knights, are at Haverhill Arts Centre on Friday, March 4, at 8pm with their show The Soundtrack of our Lives.

The comedy pop group formed in 1959 and toured with some of the biggest names of the 1960s, including the Beatles and the Rolling Stones. They have performed across the world, appearing in Australia and South Africa, even playing to British troops in the Falklands.

The Soundtrack of Our Lives is now in its third year of touring, with the emphasis on playing the songs that a whole generation will be able to sing along to, such as old favourites like Call Up The Groups, Groovin and It's So Easy.

The Knights will also be playing their inimitable version of The William Tell Overture and their hilarious take on Windmills of your Mind, a look at what happens to your body as you get older, plus much more.

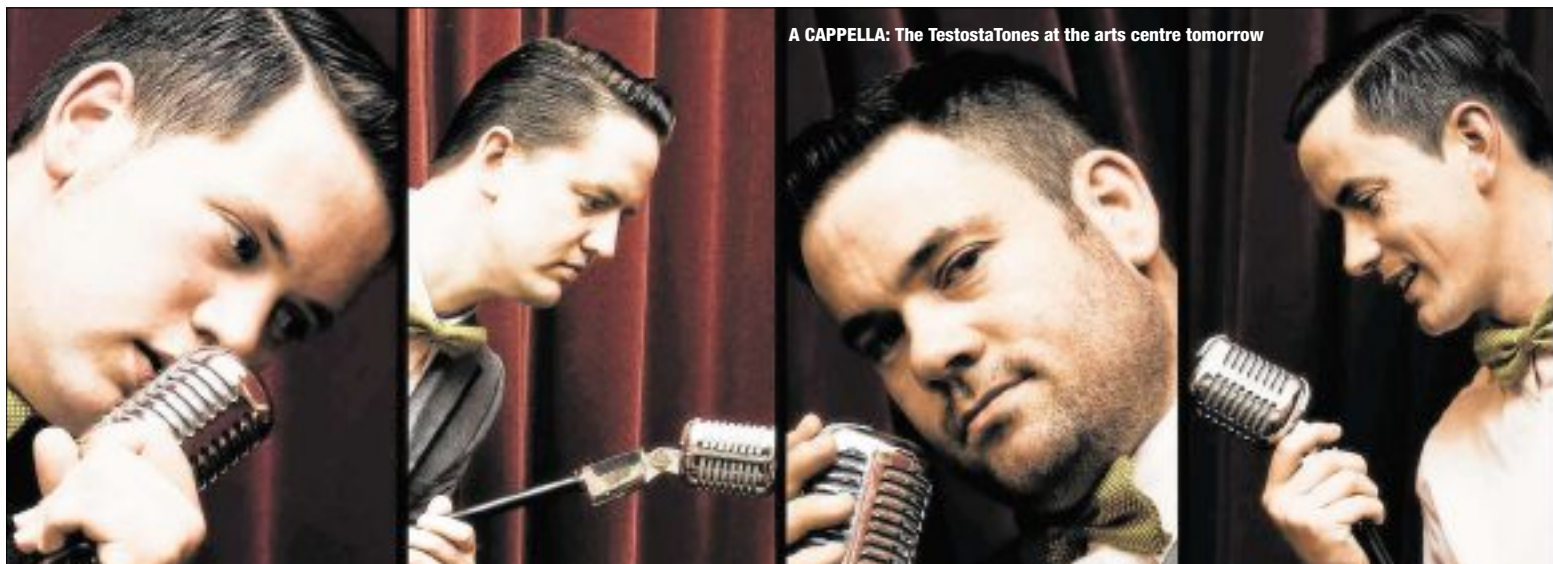

Tickets cost £18. To book, call (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

A CAPPELLA: The TestostaTones at the arts centre tomorrow

■ Thursday, February 18 – Friday, February 26

■ A vintage-style cappella group specialising in doo-wop, classic rock and roll and bebop, perform some of the best tunes from the 50s tomorrow at 7.30pm. The TestostaTones in their Totally Wireless show treat the audience to such favourites as Life Could Be A Dream, Earth Angel and Goodnight Sweetheart with a 'Radio DJ' telling us some of the stories behind the songs.

■ We're rolling in the aisles, oh no it's cabaret seating for this one, from 8pm on Sunday, February 21, when the Monkey Nuts Comedy Club returns with Kevin McCarthy "the ad lib expert", Phil Nichols who is "delightfully shocking and hilarious at the same time" and Tom Lucy who, according to Harry Hill no less, is an "outstanding young comic and one to watch".

■ Join the arts centre for an NT Live live broadcast of As You Like It on Thursday, February 25, at 7pm. With her father the Duke banished and in exile, Rosalind and her cousin Celia leave their lives in the court behind them and journey into the Forest of Arden. There, released from convention, and disguising herself as a boy, Rosalind embraces a different way of living and falls spectacularly in love. What could possibly go wrong? Starring Rosalie Craig, this performance has gone down a storm with the critics and audiences alike and has five star reviews coming out of its ears.

■ As the male variety show Forbidden Nights on Friday proved so popular and sold out very quickly, the arts centre has another date lined up, so you don't have to miss out after all. The date is Friday, September 30, at 8pm.

■ On the bumper cinema front, Hans Solo returns in another screening of Star Wars: The Force Awakens 2D (12A) tonight at 7pm. If you prefer your fantasy films earth-bound there's some fun with palaeontology, though the scientists might disapprove, with The Good Dinosaur (PG) on tomorrow at 10.30am. If you haven't managed to see Alan Bennett's The Lady in the Van (12A), your luck is in, the arts centre has screenings on Saturday, February 20, and Friday, April 1, at 7.30pm. Eddie Redmayne stars in The Danish Girl (15) on Monday, February 22, at 1.30pm and Tuesday, February 23, at 7.30pm. Renoir is one of the most fiercely debated artists and yet one of the most influential. Picasso collected more Renoirs than any other artist and Matisse and Monet revered him. He was instrumental in creating the Impressionist movement and then rejected it and went in a completely new direction – with extraordinary results. Go along on Monday, February 22, at 7.30pm and witness them for yourself in Exhibition On Screen: Renoir: Revered and Reviled. And finally Joy (12A) on Wednesday, February 24, at 7.30pm, starring Jennifer Lawrence, Bradley Cooper and Robert De Niro, is the story of a family across four generations and the woman who rises to become founder and matriarch of a powerful family business dynasty. Allies become adversaries and adversaries become allies, both inside and outside the family, as Joy's inner life and fierce imagination carry her through the storm.

■ Things just on the horizon include a broadcast of Matthew Bourne's The Car Man, an updated version of Bizet's Carmen on Tuesday, March 1, the return of those cheeky chapies otherwise known as The Barron Knights on Friday, March 4, and Abigail's Party by Centre Stage Company from March 17.

Seat's first SUV is the Ateca

SEAT has unveiled its first SUV in Barcelona.

At UK launch this September, Ateca will be available in a wide range of variants. The choice of powerful turbocharged TSI petrol and TDI diesel engines spans from 115 PS to 190 PS, with either front-wheel or all-wheel-drive, mated to manual or dual-clutch DSG transmissions. The extensive array of technology options extends from full-LED headlights through a broad portfolio of assistance systems, including some of the very latest Group technology, such as Traffic Jam Assist and Emergency Assist, right through to a package of high-end infotainment systems with eight-inch touchscreens and Full Link connectivity. Three trim levels will offer colours and top-quality materials to suit every taste, with the top-spec being the Ateca XCELLENCE.

"We have put together an amazing package of technologies and innovations for the Ateca – delivering more safety and utility but, above all, the most dynamic driving experience possible. We will set a whole new standard within the segment with its light-footed, precise handling," says Dr. Matthias Rabe, vice president of R&D at Seat. "It is incredibly fun to drive. And we have combined this driving experience with compelling utility, making the Ateca a hugely versatile companion for an active urban life."

In keeping with Seat tradition, the Ateca derives its name from Spanish geography, this time taking inspiration from the village of the same name which lies in the west of Zaragoza, right in the heart of the brand's homeland.

The Ateca's design is utterly unmistakable. The front end of the Ateca is 100 per cent Seat and yet 100 per cent SUV. The large, high grille brims with confidence, achieving "a muscular stance that exudes solidity and reliability".

The range of innovative driver assistance systems is extensive and includes Traffic Jam Assist: at traffic jam speeds, the Ateca steers, accelerates and brakes automatically within the system boundaries. At higher speeds of up to 37mph, the system provides support with speed control and lane keeping. A new safety function is Emergency Assist: if the driver remains inactive beyond a certain period, the vehicle issues first a visual then an acoustic warning, followed finally by a brief pulse of the brakes. If there is still no reaction, the Ateca slows down to a standstill, while staying in lane. Rounding off its array of additional support technologies are ACC with Front Assist, Traffic Sign Recognition, Blind Spot Detection, Rear Cross Traffic Alert and Top View Camera.

All powertrains are turbocharged. They range from 115 PS to 190PS. The diesel options start with the 1.6 TDI 115PS. The 2.0 TDI is available with 150 and 190PS. Fuel consumption figures range from 56 to 66mpg, its CO2 figures from 112 to 131g/km. The entry level petrol engine is the 1.0 TSI with 115PS. The 1.4 TSI comes with cylinder deactivation under partial load and produces 150PS. The consumption and emissions figures for these engines are between 46 and 53mpg and CO2 figures of 112 to 131 g/km.

VOLKSWAGEN: Changing tack

VW replaces 1.4 and 1.6 units with a 1.5

VOLKSWAGEN'S current line-up of 1.4 and 1.6 engines will be replaced by a new set of 1.5-litre models.

The new TSI and TDI engines will replace the existing engines in popular cars from Skoda, Volkswagen, Seat and Audi. Volkswagen says these new engines are designed to meet the much more difficult emissions regulations set to begin in 2020.

The engines are understood to be similar in size and shape to the existing ones, however the new models are likely to be lighter and more aerodynamic than the outgoing versions.

Volkswagen has been criticised in recent months for their role in the 'dieselgate' emissions scandal, in which the Wolfsburg-based car maker was accused of putting 'defeat devices' in cars to cheat emissions tests.

Barker set for Le Mans with Gulf Racing

Motorsport

BEN Barker will race at this year's Le Mans 24 Hours after agreeing a deal to drive a Gulf Racing GTE-Am class Porsche at all nine rounds of the World Endurance Championship.

The Hundo-based driver takes a big step up the sportscar racing ladder having spent the past three seasons competing primarily in the Porsche Mobil1 Supercup.

Barker, 24, will share a 991 RSR with the team's owner-driver Mike Wainwright and Irishman Adam Carroll throughout the 2016 campaign.

"I can't wait to get to Le Mans," said Barker.

"It's the pinnacle of endurance racing and will be the highlight of the season, especially as Gulf Racing will be back there with a Porsche for the first time in over 40 years.

"I'm sure Mike, Adam and I will make the No 86 (car) competitive."

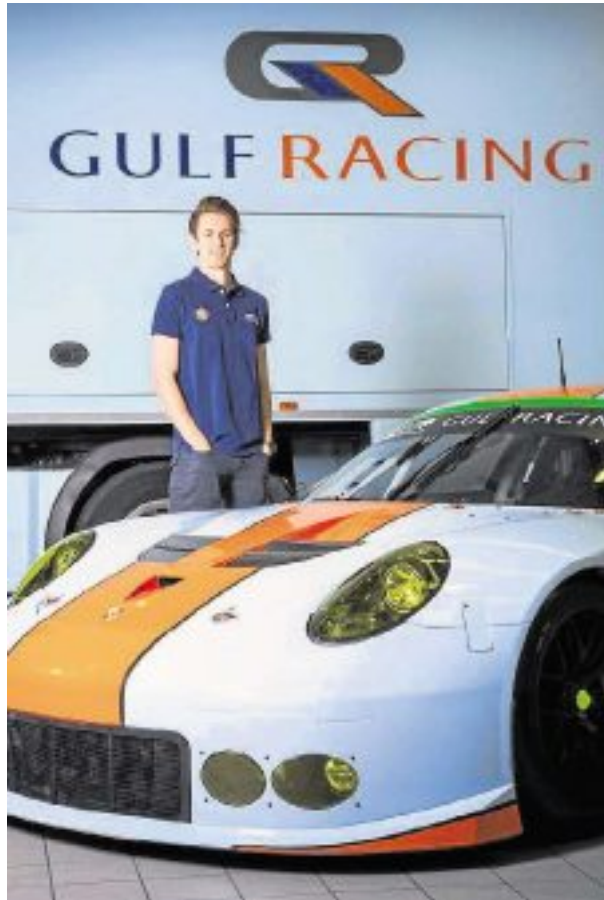

Barker is familiar with the Gulf Racing team having contested races in its famous orange and blue colours during the 2014 European Le Mans series.

He also has endurance racing experience from a part-time IMSA campaign the same season.

"This year has provided me with the fantastic career progression opportunity of driving for the Gulf Racing Team in the WEC," continued Barker.

"Racing in such a prestigious championship with such a reputable team, I cannot wait to get started. The excitement of fighting for an FIA World Championship makes it a bonus."

The World Endurance Championship gets under way with the Silverstone Six Hours during the weekend of April 15 to 17, with the Le Mans 24 Hours scheduled for June 17 and 18.

NEW CHALLENGE: Ben Barker with the Gulf Racing Porsche 991

Foursomes triumph for duo

Golf

GRAHAM Ashcroft and Jason West triumphed in the final of Haverhill's Touchwood Cup.

The winter pairs matchplay competition saw Ashcroft and West up against Dean Cornelius and Kim Ward in the decider.

Ashcroft and West were two up after three holes, but halved the fourth before Cornelius and Ward cut the deficit by winning the fifth.

However, the lead increased to four up by the ninth, with Ashcroft and West just one over par on gross at the turn.

Once again, Cornelius and Ward rallied to get back to three down by the 14th.

But the win was sealed on the 15th as Ashcroft and West sealed a 4&3 victory by parring the hole.

Mandy Williamson won Haverhill ladies' Rosebowl Final with a round of nett 75.

The competition saw the winners of all the monthly medal competitions throughout 2015 taking part, with Williamson emerging triumphant.

Mary Sall was second on 77 and Anne Reed took third with 79.

Terry Lyons linked up with Felixstowe Ferry's Ian Wheeldon to take victory in the fourball better ball competition at a Suffolk Winter Alliance meeting at Southwold.

TORCHWOOD TRIUMPH: Graham Ashcroft and Jason West

Lyons and Wheeldon scored 41 points, finishing one ahead of Haverhill duo Paul Bartlett and John Kennedy.

Tim Daniels came out on top in a 53-player field when Haverhill men held their midweek stableford.

Daniels scored 42 points, winning Division One in the process. Mick Warren was second in the division on 37 and Andy Gage third on countback with 35.

David Roope won Division Two with 39 and Trevor Broomfield was second from Nick Bailey on countback after both scored 36.

Division Three honours went to Peter Young, beating David Bohanna on countback after both scored 35, with Dave Hedley third on 34.

Tennis team win close encounter

Tennis

HAVERHILL's mixed tennis team beat Essex C in the Halstead & District Winter Mixed Tennis League, Division Three.

Josh Dashwood and Sharon Mattheus won 6-4, 7-6, but Brenton Mattheus and Abi Cartright-Thomas lost 6-4, 6-3.

The men won 6-4 and the ladies 7-5 to clinch a 4-2 overall victory.

Shinn sacked by Rovers

HAVERHILL Rovers have sacked player-manager Michael Shinn after a breakdown in the relationship between him and chairman Ali Shulver.

Shinn, who had been in charge of the first team for the past 17 months, confirmed that matters away from the pitch were the reason for his departure.

"When we (the management team) took over we were asked to bring in young local players," said Shinn.

"We did that. Results were better and the average age of the squad is now 23. We did everything we were asked to do in footballing terms. We can be proud of what we did in the short time we were there."

But it is non-footballing matters that lie behind the reason for Shinn's sacking, with Shulver unhappy with his manager's conduct off the field.

Shinn said the pair had endured a strained relationship for the past few months, but matters came to a head just over a fortnight ago when Rovers' Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division match against Godmanchester was called off.

The players, including Shinn, spent some time in the bar at the Haverhill Community Sports Association, and it was following that afternoon that Shulver said he received complaints about the first team.

"On January 30th the first team's behaviour was deemed to be unsatisfactory by the club and the Haverhill Community Sports Association who own the facility," said Shulver.

"A final written warning was issued to the first team manager, with conditions, and since then the relationship between him and the committee, in particular myself, has become untenable for the future."

Shinn admitted the players had been drinking but denied that their behaviour had got out of hand.

"The bar staff there never complained or asked us to leave," he said.

Johnny Milne's hat-trick gave Haverhill Borough a 3-0 win at Team Bury on Tuesday night.
